12. We would like to thank the La Jolla Foundation for their support. The WordWright Challenge (four meets annually) is a national reading competition for high school students emphasizing analytical reading. More than 64,000 students from 48 states participated in the meet.

As a result of Meet 3, La Jolla High School sophomores placed third in the nation. Sophomores Edward Cheney, Torrey Coan, Elizabeth Herrmann, Antonia Lacerda, and Cate "Blue" Schroeder won high honors for individual achievement, being among the 39 highest-scoring tenth graders. Distinguished results were achieved by Lena Albatro, Thomas Evans, Selena Gladstone, Elizabeth Heller, Bert Ousterhout, Grant Wagner, and Cavan Walsh.

The participating junior classes tied for fifth place. High honors for individual achievement, being among the 65 highest-scoring eleventh graders in the entire country were Samantha Deng, Natalia Garcia, and Grant Starsiak. Juniors Josie Ballard, Katie Couris, Madeline Devitt, Hannah Hu, Miles Matalon, Lilly Rice, Giulia Serbia, and Jacqueline Tuey attained distinguished results.
